GANES is a 501 (C)(3) tax-exempt, nonprofit organization. We are located in southern New Jersey, and serve individuals and families across the northeastern region of the United States. By collecting these empty ink jet cartridges and laser toners, GANES is able to raise money through recycling them. Every dollar adds up to help those affected by galactosemia, a rare genetic, metabolic disorder. GANES is run by parents, families, and volunteers, so 100% of the money raised goes directly to support our mission:

To create and strengthen networking of individuals and families affected by galactosemia along with health care providers, and to support education and research.
